NetFM opens European office in Belgium.

NetFM an established car sharing technology company in the United Kingdom is branching out into Europe.

The company that currently provides major telecommunications companies in the UK such as Vodafone and Orange with its secure Journey2Share software is actively seeking to expand its customer base to European telecommunications companies.

Journey2Share software enables employees in large organisations to identify potential sharers that live in the same area and then contact them via e-mail or phone to start sharing their journeys to and from work. The system not only matches car users but will also match cyclists, walkers and public transport users.

Rehan O'Grady NetFM's European Account Manager said "The Journey2Share service can be rolled out in a matter of weeks rather than months, making the adoption of car sharing programmes very easy in a large organisation. Companies who use the service see a range of benefits for both staff and the organisation in terms of cost savings and on site parking congestion. Car sharing also reduces CO2 emissions and helps the environment."
